Sabancı Business School moves 6 steps up in the Financial Times European Business Schools Rankings

Sabancı Business School moved 6 steps up to 63rd place in the Financial Times (FT) European Business Schools Rankings in 2020. Sabancı Executive MBA program is ranked among top 50 Executive MBA programs with is 46th place. The FT European Business Schools 2020 ranking methodology is based on the performance of five major programs: MBA, Executive MBA, Master of Management (MiM) and two certificate programs. The Financial Times is recognized as the world's leading ranking organization at both school and program level in the Business Schools rankings. Business Schools must have AACSB or EQUIS accreditation in order to be ranked in FT European Business School Rankings. Sabancı Business School continues to step up in FT European Business Schools Rankings with its outstanding success in Executive Development Programs, the percentage of International Faculty members, all faculty members with PhD degrees.

Sabancı University Executive MBA Program moves up by 10 places

Sabancı Business School Executive MBA (EMBA) Program has moved 10 steps up to 84th place in the Financial Times Ranking of “Global Executive MBA” programs in 2020.

In the ranking of the world’s best business school EMBA programs, schools are evaluated based on 17 criteria. Data for the ranking are collected using two online surveys: the first completed by participating schools and the second by alumni. Alumni responses inform five ranking criteria: salary today, salary increase, career progress, work experience and aims achieved.

Information provided by the business schools informs 10 criteria including female faculty, female students, women on board, international faculty and students and boards, international course experience, extra languages, faculty with doctorates, FT research rank, CSR rank and overall satisfaction.

Nihat Kasap, the Dean of the Sabancı Business School said: “As Sabancı Business School, we are both happy and proud to have been ranked in top 100 among FT best Executive MBA Programs globally with a leap of 10 places to 84th up from 94th last year. Our faculty with its quality of education and research at an international level is among the best not only in Turkey, but also one of the best business schools in the world.”

Only business schools with AACSB or EQUIS accreditation are eligible to apply for the Financial Times EMBA ranking.
